FORENSIC EXPERIENCE:

I have been in private practice in Minneapolis, Minnesota for over 40 years. During this time, in addition to my clinical practice where I have treated children and adults, I have also been involved in the practice of Forensic Psychology.

I have completed over 1,700 forensic evaluations. In total, I have testified as an expert witness more than 500 times in a variety of court settings in the State of Minnesota as well as nationally. I have been hired by both the Defense and Plaintiff in addition to being frequently appointed as a neutral examiner by the court. Finally, I have been hired and qualified as an expert in PTSD by the United States Army and the United States Navy.

The psychological assessments and expert testimony I have provided include the following areas and issues in Forensic Psychology:

Civil Suits Involving Claims of Pain and Suffering, and Emotional Distress: I conduct evaluations of adults and children in civil suits where pain and suffering and emotional distress is alleged. I have evaluated litigants involved in car accidents; litigants injured by physical and sexual assault; employment-related cases, including claims of harassment and discrimination; and alleged emotional trauma related to a wide variety of other physical injuries. Additionally, I have conducted evaluations in cases involving sexual assault by the clergy as well as in suits where sexual abuse has occurred in the context of institutional settings such as schools, hospitals, and residential treatment centers.

Sexual Harassment, Gender Discrimination, and Age Discrimination: I perform independent psychological evaluations of individuals who allegedly are suffering from PTSD related to workplace sexual harassment, gender discrimination, or age discrimination. Such evaluations are conducted to determine the emotional effects of such discrimination or harassment on the alleged victim's functioning.

Criminal Law: I conduct court-ordered evaluations involving physical and sexual abuse. I have also completed evaluations for both the prosecution and defense in criminal cases involving the sexual misconduct of juveniles and adults. I have further been hired as an expert to evaluate adolescent and adult offenders, related to mental health issues, which may have an impact on sentencing. I have additionally been hired as an expert by the U.S. Army and Navy in criminal cases involving Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD). Provide expert testimony regarding children's statements about alleged sexual abuse; standard of care in interviewing children; recantation; and delayed reporting.

Family Law: I performed evaluations related to high conflict custody disputes involving alleged personality disorders and/or allegations of abuse to children and adults for over 35 years. Currently I continue to critique other professional's custody evaluations, and act as an expert in post-decree disputes; visitation disputes; termination of parental rights; and parental capacity evaluations. I also provide coaching to individuals involved in custody disputes. In addition, I have frequently served as an expert in cases involving Parental Alienation and Factitious Disorder Imposed on Another. Appointed as a Rule 706 expert in high conflict custody cases

Juvenile Court: I perform evaluations as well as provide expert testimony regarding juvenile offenders and victims in the areas of sexual, physical, and emotional abuse.

Expert Witness: Rape Trauma, Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder, the Reliability of Adult and Children's Memory of Abuse, High Conflict Custody Evaluations, and Resist Refuse Dynamics (formerly referred to as Parental Alienation).

Critiquing other Professionals' Work: I frequently act as an expert witness, critiquing evaluations performed by other clinicians in my areas of expertise. I provide expert opinion regarding the forensic quality of such evaluations and the evaluator's adherence to the standards of care in the profession. I evaluate the reliability of alleged child and adult victims of sexual assault, in the context of interviews with child sexual abuse victims. I have testified as to the reliability of children's reports, the psychological effects of abuse, and recommendations for treatment.
